

Once again this fall the Police and Fire Departments are joining together to invite the citizens of the area to learn about being safe and meet their public safety professionals. Together they are inviting the public to visit us, see the tools of our profession, and watch various events. One aspect of the Open House is to promote health and safety within our community, another is to give the citizens contact with their employees.

On Sunday September 28th from 10 am to 3 pm, the Boxborough Fire Department and the Boxborough Police Department will once again host their annual Public Safety Open House. They welcome the public to visit them, see the tools of their profession, and watch various events.

The event draws hundreds of Boxborough residents, and many visitors from surrounding towns. They have been fortunate that with donations from the Police and Fire unions, and great assistance from local businesses and organizations, they are able to provide a day that is a fun and educational family event without costing the taxpayers.
